SPEAKING

6. Talk to your partner. Do you agree with these statements? Why? Why not?

- This generation of teenagers behaves worse than previous generations.
- The biggest mistake which parents make is that they treat their teenagers like little children.
- It is a good idea not to tell your parents what you are doing because if you do they will get angry or worried.
- Fathers are much better at dealing with teenagers than mothers because they understand them better.
- Adults have a bad opinion of teenagers, but they often behave badly too and set a bad example for their children.

7. Do you think the following issues are a problem for teenagers? Why? Why not?

- | | |
|-----------------|-------------------|
| • appearance | • drug abuse |
| • peer pressure | • unprotected sex |
| • money | • violence |
| • anorexia | • drinking |

8. Discuss the following questions about teenagers and their parents with your partner:

- How do you get on with your parents? Who do you have a better relationship with? With your Mum or your Dad? Why?
- Are your parents strict? Do you always have to tell your parents where you are going? Do you have to be back home by a certain time?
- Do you ever argue with them? What about? Clothes, friends, school, housework ...?
- How many good friends do you have? Are they friends you can rely on?
- Who do you think knows you better? Your family or your friends?
- If you have a problem who do you talk to? Your parents or your friends?
- What advice would you give to parents who want to understand their teenage children more?
- What do you think are the biggest problems that young people have to face today?
- Is there a generation gap in your family?
- When would you like to leave your parents and start your own life?
